The fruit and vegetable growing capabilities of Rugby, and the Plateau generally, are well known and satisfactorily established. The object of this Company is to set up machinery, etc., in Rugby, for the canning of these products, and to ship them in the most compact and profitable form.

The abundant production of tomatoes, and the excellence of other quality, has determined the promoters, after careful consideration, to begin the enterprise upon them principally. These considerations lead them to the conviction that they can turn out, at current prices, an article superior to any now on the market. They hope to add corn, beans, strawberries, apples, peaches, etc., as they progress.

The Company has secured a complete canning and packing plant, which is now on the ground, and will shortly be erected. The amount of capital already subscribed is $3,000.

GOOD LANDS

ON

EASY TERMS

IN ARKANSAS

The Land of

Many Crops and Big Profits,

Fine Climate, Good Water, Rich

Soil, Markets, Game,

Rivers, Timber.

Arkansas challenges comparison for fruits, Wheat, Corn, Grasses, Cotton, Wool, etc.

Figure on prices of land in Arkansas, the products per acre and their marketing. Raise early crops. Get large prices. Figure on the days of out-door labor, clothing and food; then contrast the stock-raising in the North. Figure on constant employment. Find that sensible and careful people are healthy. Learn of good seasons, fine climate and favorable shows.

Don't "guess" that "wheat of the prairie" will profit you, but know that a variety of crops insures a home market.

N.B.—There is an important movement of people from the Northern to Southern States, caused by advantages. Don't neglect it. Let facts overcome prejudice. Come and see, or write to

THOS. ESSEX,

Land Commissioner,

LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS.

The late two or three frosts have done no harm to the fruit, and so far on in the spring as we now are we can hope freezing point will not again be touched. There is every promise of an exceptionally large yield of peaches and strawberries—the first picking of the latter has already been sent to Cincinnati from Missionary Ridge—and late as the spring this year is upon the Cumberland Plateau, compared with the days north of the Ohio, we are in midsummer.

This section of Tennessee is remarkable for its exemption from the atmospheric disturbances that cause so many storms and cyclones in other portions of our country. There appears to be some natural barrier that shelters our favored section from these terrible catastrophes. Prof. Mann has written an able article on this peculiarity of our State, which would be interesting for Northern people contemplating moving to Tennessee, to read.—Lawrenceburg Press.

The immigration season has well commenced. For the week ending Saturday last 15,952 immigrants landed in New York City, five steamers on one day bringing 4,331. The estimated number of arrivals for this year, however, is put at 100,000 less than last year.

The demand for farm laborers is greater than the supply, and men find work as soon as they land. The demand for domestic servants is also much beyond the supply.

The fact that $6,000,000 were paid out by immigrants for railroad tickets at Castle Garden alone in the year ending last December is an indication of what the immigration is.

The Dramatic Festival in Cincinnati during the past week has been a great success, crowding the immense Music Hall with audiences ranging from four thousand to six thousand persons. The spectacular part is said to be the finest ever put upon the American stage, and, in "Julius Caesar," so accurate as to deceive any ancient Roman citizen that should "revisit the glimpses of the moon." The numerous "Stars," both wandering and fixed, have also done more than their best to shine brightly, and have succeeded. Truly the Queen City is as fortunate with her expositions, her music and her plays as with her pork, her beer and her tobacco.

The Irish "Invincibles" are reaping the recompense of reward usually meted to unsuccessful revolutionists, and watched as they are from without and "rounded" upon from within, the dynamite party has as much to fear from internal explosions as from external.

The late Irish Convention at Philadelphia was, perhaps, as a demonstration, successful, but there was more of the 17th century history of Ireland put into the resolutions than was, we think, quite necessary as encouragement to the work of bettering Ireland of the 19th century. If vindictiveness was put more into the background, and half the energy of the northern part of the Island displayed in the southern and western parts, the Irish question would soon be solved and Erin still be "first isle of the sea."

The Craighead cave in this county possesses one curious feature that no cave in the world has, so far as known. It has a room covering six acres, and over the entire space there is not a single column or support of any kind.—Monroe Democrat.

Under the new schedule the Government tax on tobacco was changed on Tuesday, May 1, from sixteen to eight cents per pound. The revenue stamps were sold in large quantities at all the Internal Revenue offices, and an enormous amount of tobacco was moved. It has been held back for some time to get the benefit of the reduced tax.

Arrangements are now being made to change the narrow gauge railroad which runs from Oakdale junction to the furnace to a broad gauge. This change has long been needed and the public will be glad to hear of its being done.

If the gauge is changed it will be a necessity to extend the road to Clinton, which will give direct communication with Knoxville. The possibility of the scheme is now being considered by the stockholders and moneyed men of that section, who will not be slow to see the many advantages that would accrue from such a venture.—Chattanooga Times.

The old rhyme says "John the good husbandman dunged his land with tallow," with the effect of being able to follow when others were beginning to sow only. But in France, where it is commonly said things are better managed than in some other parts of the world, molasses is used to "sweeten the soil." The beet that is so much used for a peculiar kind of sugar leaves upon manufacture a peculiar residue, termed by the French "vinasses." Having no other use for it, it is distributed over the land by means of irrigation, taking back to the soil, chemists say, the fertilizing elements absorbed by the parent beet. This is economy truly reciprocal.

Much damage would be done anywhere by a tornado, but it should be remembered that in many parts of the West and South houses are so slightly constructed as to be easily overturned or wrenched to pieces by storms that a well built house would resist. The debris of any house falling upon the heads of the occupants is heavy enough to maim and kill; but inspection of many buildings in the devastated districts will cause wonder that more were not leveled. Log houses are seldom or never destroyed, neither are solid brick houses; but where houses are built of boards or timber that had to be hauled many miles, and by owners who had very little money or time to spare, any heavy storm is likely to do serious damage.—New York Herald.

The early May morning is delightfully fresh and the best part of the day for comfortably enjoying the air and scenery. In the Old World there are still many customs connected with the month that are not observed in this more practical New World. Among the many pleasant legends and ideas associated with May, perhaps the belief in the virtues of the dew of an early May morning is not one of the least pleasant, while it is one of the most encouraging. The idea is that a bath of May dew collected before sunrise has the effect of beautifying the faces of those maidens who were behind the door when beauty was given out. The custom of getting up before sunrise to bathe the face in May dew used to be very general, and in Pepys' Diary we find this entry: "My wife away; down to Woolwich in order to get a little air, and to gather May-dew to-morrow, which Mrs. Turner has taught her is the only thing in the world to wash her face with."

TENNESSEE NEWS.

A button factory is to be established at Spring City.

At Clinton, Anderson county, a steam saw mill exploded. No lives lost.

Tennessee had one delegate in the Land League Convention in Philadelphia.

There are 1,350 convicts in the Tennessee penitentiary, the largest number on record.

The town of Maryville, with a population of two thousand, has nine buildings devoted to school purposes exclusively.

In the Citico Creek, near Chattanooga, last week, Jonah Moses was drowned while attempting to cross. He had been drinking freely.

Two hundred acres of corn were washed out by a high rise in the Tennessee river, near Scottsboro. They will have to be replanted.

About 8,000 barrels of coal oil were sold from Knoxville alone last year. Fifteen years ago not 100 barrels a year were used in East Tennessee.

The annual spring sale of thoroughbred yearlings at Belle Meade realized $27,420. There was a very large attendance of buyers and visitors from all parts.

Fifty-five infantry companies, five batteries of artillery, and several noted military bands, have entered for the competitive drill at Nashville, beginning on the 21st inst.

The establishment of the volunteer weather service in Tennessee has been very satisfactory, so far, and will soon be extended so as to include every county in the State.

At Darwin, the other day, Mrs. Harrison was found dead in her bed with two bullet holes in her head. A verdict of accidental killing was returned. Popular sentiment demands a fuller investigation.

The Cumberland Presbyterian General Assembly will meet in Nashville, May 17th, and continue in session about ten days. It is estimated 200 delegates will be in attendance, and fully as many more visitors.

Great difficulty is experienced in forming a jury in Loudon, to try Andy Taylor, because about everyone has made up his mind that the prisoner is guilty. It is expected, however, twelve men will be found by to-day.

H. Gooden was shot at and wounded seriously in the lungs as he was returning home from Loudon, Thursday last week. There seems to be no reason for the outrage beyond a little "fun." His assailants have not been fully identified.

A drunken man named Hawkins, on the Nashville train at Anderson station, one day last week, fired and killed Bob Reeves. There had been no previous quarrel so far as known. Hawkins has been captured and it is probable he will be mobbed.

Ex-Treasurer Polk was re-arrested on Thursday morning, on a capias issued by Judge Allen. The ground of arrest was not stated, but the Judge had information that Polk was preparing for flight. He has so far failed to comply with the terms of settlement offered him by the Legislature.

Suppose the men who found Chattanooga a mud-hole, who have made it a city, and who will leave it one of the grandest pillars supporting the temple of the New South—suppose these men had concentrated their energies at Knoxville, what a city we would be to-day!—Knoxville Chronicle.
